We cannot mix things of God and things of the adversary, and just pretend it is ok.

Before Constantine, for the longest time, until the sun god ways began to creep in, God's people kept the holidays mentioned in the Bible. In the spring, before there was Easter, there was Passover, Unleavened Bread and First Fruits.

After the cross, and before sun god influence, believers still kept God's real holidays. Here is one example:

At the end of the second century, Victor, the bishop of Rome began to threaten other Church leaders in an attempt to get them to abandon Passover completely in the favor of the Roman Easter celebration.

Polycrates, the bishop of Ephesus, wrote this to Victor sometime between 130 and 196
CE.

Then there is Polycarp, both bishop and martyr at Smyrna; and Thraseas from Eumenia, both bishop and martyr, who rests at Smyrna. Why should I speak of Sagaris, bishop and martyr, who rests at Laodicea? of the blessed Papirius, moreover? and of Melito the eunuch,⁸ who performed all his actions under the influence of the Holy Spirit, and lies at Sardis, awaiting the visitation ⁹ from heaven, when he shall rise again from the dead?

These all kept the Passover on the fourteenth day of the month, in accordance with the Gospel, without ever deviating from it, but keeping to the rule of faith.

Moreover I also, Polycrates, who am the least of you all, in accordance with the tradition of my relatives, some of whom I have succeeded-seven of my relatives were bishops, and I am the eighth, and my relatives always observed the day when the people put away the leaven. (Polycrates Bishop of Ephesus 130-196 CE.)

Acts 20:29-30

I know that after my departure fierce wolves will come in among you, not sparing the flock; and from among your own selves will arise men speaking twisted things, to draw away the disciples after them.

So from Polycarp to Polycrates, 8 generations of bishops, all kept the Passover. If they kept the Passover we can rest assured that they kept God's other holidays as outlined in Leviticus 23 as well. That was of course until Rome made it illegal to follow God in the Leviticus 23 way and instituted they're Christianized sun god ways. Thus, the true Biblical holidays were not abolished by our Messiah, or by Paul.

The problem is this, despite all that occurred at the reformation, there are still many traditions and doctrines that many hold on to that were simply the result of the unbiblical marriage of Christianity and Mithraism.

Unfortunately, despite the thousands of Christian denominations that exist, there exists not one that has take both feet out of the sun god mixture that became known as the Roman Catholic Church. We would have historically done much better in the faith if we would have simply considered and practiced the following:

Ephesians 5:11

"And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them."

2 Kings 23:11

"And he took away the horses that the kings of Judah had given to the sun, at the entering in of the house of the LORD, by the chamber of Nathanmelech the chamberlain, which was in the suburbs, and burned the chariots of the sun with fire".

Exodus 34:13

"But you shall destroy their altars, dash in pieces their pillars, obelisks, images, and cut down their Asherim, symbols of the goddess Asherah."

According to Egyptian mythology, when the judges found Osiris [Nimrod] guilty of corrupting the religion of Adam and cut up his body, they threw the parts into the Nile. It was said that a fish ate one of these chunks (his reproductive organ) and became transformed. Later, Isis [or Semiramis] was fishing along the riverbank when she fished up a half-man, half-fish. This sea creature was Dagon, the reincarnated Nimrod. And Dagon is the representation of Nimrod of ancient Babylon resurrected out of the ocean depths as a half-man, half-fish.

"In Babylon there was "Oannes" a fish god who imparted great knowledge to the people. He taught them how to build cities.

Zephaniah 1:9,10,14

"On that day I will punish those who worship Dagon.....On that day, says Yahweh, a cry will be heard at the Fish Gate... I will punish those who are satisfied with themselves, who think, 'The Lord won't help us or punish us.' The Lord's day of judging is coming soon; it is near and coming fast. The cry will be very sad on the day of the Lord; even soldiers will cry."
